Symposium 8: instructions for access, and format and operation

Access to symposium

The link for the Webex (event) meeting room will be sent to the ISE. As far as we understood, there will be a general password required (provided by the ISE), but from our side, there shouldn't be any password or registration process needed. Our license allows for maximum 1,000 participants. We would expect that this will be sufficient for everybody who is interested.

Format and operation of the symposium

The symposium will take place live, including a short Q&A session after each talk – just like for standard conferences. There will be keynote talks, invited talks and a few selected oral presentations, selected from the abstracts submitted.

The questions can be raised by using the chat function and will be posed by the session chairs. This turned out very suitable for meetings with a large number of participants (as expected for our symposium).